

Serve military installations with your contract

Leverage Sourcewell's procurement support agreement with the military

As a Sourcewell awarded supplier, you now have access to potential Department of Defense sales that support military installations across the U.S., including bases and facilities supporting defense operations, through our Intergovernmental Support Agreement (IGSA). This agreement allows us to support installations' procurement efforts by tapping into you, our awarded-supplier network, to help them get the supplies and services they need.

Key elements of the IGSA:

- The Army initiates everything. The process starts with a request from the installation.
- The categories are defined. Equipment, facility sustainment and repairs, minor construction, and supplies.
- The Army decides. Once Sourcewell provides quotes, the Army chooses who they go with.
- The procurement process is simpler and faster than traditional military options. In most cases, the FAR, DFARS, and Buy American Act will not apply.

Learn more at sourcewell-mn.gov/military or contact your Supplier Development Administrator

Equipment

Trailers, construction, grounds, and utility maintenance equipment

Facility sustainment and repairs

HVAC replacements, fire alarm suppression, roofing, and remodels

Minor construction

Shade structures, transfer switch replacements

Supplies

MRO supplies like welding blankets, belts, screws, and tools